AMSTERDAM

HPS

Also known as Hiding in Plain Sight, HPS was opened in 2012 by cocktail lover and former DJ Guillermo González with his wife, Vera Magagnoli. Almost immediately, the city's creative-industry elite began clamouring for space at the bar (opposite). It's settling in on one of the lounge's dark that is served in a glass skull (perhaps as a warning that you should never have two). Others prefer the gentler delights of more classic concoctions such as the white negroni. HPS also hosts monthly pop-up dining events by local foodie legends like Kitchen Seductions. This living-room-cum-lounge is not just here to break ahead.
